Support the Carnegie Arts Centre

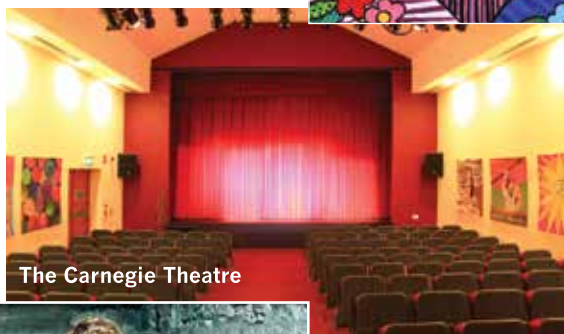

Welcome to The Carnegie Arts Centre Kenmare

The Carnegie Arts Centre is a hub for creative activity for the community of Kenmare, offering a full arts programme and a focal point for the development and expression of local and international culture. From children's pantomimes to youth theatre, from local musicians and artists to senior citizens matinee movies, this bijou arts centre, with its intimate, 140-seat theatre, full-size cinema screen, first-class conference facilities and well-designed exhibition space, reaches out to all sections of society. Film, music, the visual arts, literature and drama jostle for position on the programme, and there is always place for workshops as well as performances, for social gatherings as well as exhibitions.

Since its opening in 2008 it has become a vibrant and well-loved arts centre for the community.

Visitors to Ireland often come in search of some flavour of the local culture and the Carnegie Arts Centre acts as a place to showcase traditional music and other cultural offerings. Its benefit to a tourist town like Kenmare is enormous. Holidays are enhanced by interaction with the arts and positive memories are formed. We are proud to be able to play our part in maintaining Ireland's cultural reputation among visitors to our town.

For a community living through difficult economic times, the arts play a role in keeping spirits uplifted. They remind us that we have been through hardship before and survived. If ever a centre embodied this concept it is the Carnegie Arts Centre.

The Carnegie Theatre

Tommy Fleming

Previous venues failed to fully satisfy the appetite for culture, and in the 1990s a new group of visionaries sought to revive the Carnegie for a new century and a new age. The Board of Directors spent thirteen years campaigning, lobbying, fundraising and working through obstacles to create the contemporary arts centre you see today. It has again been taken to heart, this time by a new generation of Kenmare residents. It now operates successfully under a dedicated, enthusiastic team, most of whom are volunteers, and without whom we could not continue.

Support

Maintaining this service does, however, require support, which is why we extend an invitation to you to become a Friend of the Carnegie Arts Centre. Although we share the building with the local library and Kerry County Council offices, we operate as a separate entity. We are a non profit making organisation with charitable status responsible for our own upkeep. Our income is derived primarily from ticket sales and a small local authority grant, which is likely to be reduced in the future. From this we pay insurance premiums, staff wages, performers' fees, heating, lighting, phone bills, general maintenance and day-to-day costs.

It is our deepest desire to have this venue continue to provide a cultural and creative service to the local community. We believe in the potential of people when they are lifted out of the ordinary. If you share this vision and are in a position to become part of our efforts, we invite you to become a Friend of the Carnegie Arts Centre.
